MEMORANDA.

By the arrival of the schooner Mointaine on Thursday last con Kauai, bringing the Captain and crew of the Haw schooner from Kauai, bringing the Captain and crew of the Haw schooner Hokalete, we learn that this latter vessel was abandoned at sea about twenty-five miles from Waianae, Oahn, having sprung aleak and filled, but not going down, having her hold filled with firewood. This fine little vessel belonged to the owners of the Puuloa Nalt Works, and has been constantly engaged in bringing salt from their works up to this port, for the last eight or ten years; occasionally, when there were no orders for ships to fill, going down to Kauai for firewood. No cause is assigned for the disaster, but it is supposed that in the heavy sea, and with a deep load, she labored so heavily that the rusty iron fastening of her upper works gave way.
